The Loyalist Tiles of St. Alban's, Encaustic Memorial Tiles of the 19th Century, Diane Berlet, 2020

"Joseph Allen, one of the original Loyalist settlers in Adolphustown, was born in New Jersey in 1742, and first settled in Dover Township, Monmouth, New Jersey. Prior to the American Revolution, he owned extensive property there, including mills and farms. He supplied flour, beef and other foods to the British troops in New York during the war and was appointed an officer in the British army. Taken prisoner in 1780, he then escaped, and joined first, a marine regiment, and later Thomas Ward's regiment in New Jersey. He raised a company of Loyalists and commanded them at Bergen Neck from 1781 - 1783. In 1783, he joined with other Loyalists planning to emigrate to Canada. He arrived in Sorel, Quebec in 1783 and reached Adolphustown with Major Peter Van Alstine in 1784."

The Napanee Beaver, February 12th, 1875

"J.W. DUFFETT, Former Warden, Last Male Member of U.E.L. Family"

"The death of John Watson Duffett recently in Kingston at the age of 88 and the announcement of his burial at the J.J. Watson Cemetery at Adolphustown stirs memories for many in this area particularly among those who are interested in the history of this United Empire Loyalist land.

"The fact that John Duffett's middle name was Watson and that he has been buried in a cemetery by that name is the clue which leads to a story of a pioneer family which made up a generation that made Canada a nation. John Duffett served as Reeve of Adolphustown Township and was Warden of Lennox and Addington County in 1841. He was 88, so was born in 1887. What was the world of John Duffett, the world he entered 20 years after Confederation?

"Well, John Duffett's great-grandfather was a Watson who was in the British Navy and found in Guinea in the slave trade uprisings and later came to Canada and served with the army in the War of 1812 and was wounded at Lundy's Lane.

His grandmother was a daughter of Joseph Allen, who was a Quaker with a prosperous milling business in New Jersey. He gave up his faith and took up arms when the rebels destroyed his property during the American Revolution. He raised a company of Loyalists and destroyed the rebel settlement. He came to Adolphustown in 1784 and brought his family and three slaves. He was granted over 5.000 acres at four different locations, including 800 in Adolphustown.

"The Watson and the Allen families were joined in the next generation with the marriage of a Watson son and the youngest of the Allen daughters. Their son was John Joseph Watson. He married a second cousin, Gertrude Allen. They had two daughters, one of them Mr. Duffett's mother.

"J.J. Watson attended a private school in Kingston, and according to a biography in The Napanee Beaver of 1888, the elder of their two daughters died in 1886 and the other daughter. Mrs. William Seeley Duffett, who had been living in Ottawa, came to live with them, along with her husband and their family.

"The Duffett's had two sons, Harold and John. Dr. Harold W. Duffett was a Napanee physician for many years and died Aug. 20, 1974. The death of John Duffett is the end of the family name for both Harold and John Duffett had daughters only, two each.

"J.J. Watson was a remarkable man. He was the first magistrate in Adolphustown after the separation from Frontenac in 1864. He was superintendent of schools under Egerton Ryerson, the father of Ontario's public school system, and wrote articles which were published in educational journals.

"He was a captain in the militia in Kingston and postmaster for 37 years. He was on county council before, during and after separation and on the committee which built the county court house and jail at Napanee. He was Warden of the county in 1870, the year The Napanee Beaver began publication, and was the leader of the plan to build a registry office here.

"John Joseph Watson went to school with Canada's first Prime Minister, Sir. John A. MacDonald, when the MacDonald family lived in the Adolphustown area, and they cast their first vote together at Bath in 1836 for John Solomon Cartwright. Sir John A. and Lady MacDonald stayed at the Watson home on visits to the area in later years and the Watsons were frequent guests at the Prime Minister's residence in Ottawa.

"Mr. Watson was a successful merchant (he built the store at Adolphustown) and a ship owner, farmer and grain dealer, and gave the land for the Anglican Church of St. Alban the Martyr at Adolphustown and helped in its construction, which was underway at the time The Beaver's 1888 biography was published."
