The Foster Family

"The Foster brothers, William, Joseph and Martin, and a sister Sabra, who became the wife of Daniel B. Way, came to Canada from Dutchess County. William preceded Joseph by some four years, settling on the March Front, where he acquired some three hundred acres of land, half of which came in exchange for a horse. The Ways and Cronks were his first neighbors. He married Elizabeth Reid. His brother, Joseph Foster, joined him about 1793.

"Both William Foster and his brother Joseph seem to have been peculiarly happy in their relations with the nomadic redmen who came and went in the district. During the early residence of William on the Marsh Front, there was a quarrel among the Mohawks, which ended in a fight, and the services of William in caring for the wounded were so much to their satisfaction that a bond of amity was formed between them. As for Joseph, when he had joined his brother, they regarded him with especial favor, and looked upon him as one specially endowed by the Great Spirit with manifold gifts. When his mother died the Indians assembled in great numbers at the funeral and paid the greatest reverence and respect to the deceased.

"Joseph Foster remained with his brother through winter, assisting him on the farm, and in the spring moved on to Daniel Way's farm, where he worked for one year. He then bought two hundred acres, lot 27 of the 2nd concession of Sophiasburgh, a portion of land which had been granted to an old army officer, Major John Howell, under one of the proclamations. He was a man remarkable for his size and strength, and these were at once vigorously brought into play in the preliminary work of clearing his farm. He had brought with him from Dutchess County a seven-pound American axe; but it needed a man of Joseph's inches and strength to wield an axe of this inordinate weight. This weapon, it is said, was his constant companion for seven years.

"Both he and his wife - he had married Elizabeth Giles - who if no so physically powerful, was as fearless as himself, had, especially at first, as much as they could do to protect themselves and their stork from stealthy wolves and prowling bears, which were particularly numerous and daring in the neighborhood of their holding. It is related that Joseph made his way to his land on Fish Lake with his wife and first-born child a mere babe, over a blazed trail, driving a yoke of oxen, and his family riding upon the jumper, from which the cradle floated down a stream as they were fording the same. Fortunately, baby and cradle were rescued, but when Joseph returned the oxen he was compelled to leave his wife and baby alone in an unfinished cabin. The brave young mother could only keep out the wolves by occasionally throwing a firebrand in their midst, as they clustered around the door.

"When the three sons, who composed the family, reached maturity, Joseph Foster found himself the owner of between nine and ten hundred acres of land. This large acreage, with good houses, outbuildings and plenty of stock, in addition to other valuable interests in the township, was the outcome and merited reward of years of patient toil and noble perseverance.

"Joseph Foster had three sons, William, Asa and Joseph, all of whom settled in Sophiasburgh. William, the eldest, was unmarried. Asa married twice; first, Mary A. Miller and Second, Lucretia Morden; Joseph married Lydia Osborne.

The sons inherited the valuable property left by their father in equal shares. In their hands it increased in value, and has remained in the family. Alfred Foster, son of Asa Foster, and a grandson of the Pioneer, now occupies a part of the old homestead, which has become one of the model farms of the county. His brother, Aaron B. Foster, occupies and owns lot 21, 1st concession, three-quarters of a mile distant, originally owned by Daniel S. Way and purchased from him by the Foster family. Both brothers have filled positions in the Township Council for several years: Aaron has been Reeve, Deputy Reeve and Councillor; and Alfred has also been at various times been a member of the Council.

"Joseph Foster, the pioneer, died in 1830, aged sixty-one years; his widow survived him twenty-five years, and attained the ripe old age of ninety-three. He belonged to the Society of Friends. In politics, he was a Conservative."
