"In an old burial ground on an eminence overlooking the Bay, midway between Belleville and Trenton, where lie the ashes of many of the men who built the first log cabins along the front of Sidney, rest the remains of Captain John Walten (sic) Meyers, the founder of Belleville, and the man who erected the first mills in the County of Hastings. Family tradition has it that the old Captain was born in Prussia. Some years before the American Colonies threw off their allegiance, his father left the land of his birth and came with his family to the colony of New York, where he settled on a farm near Poughkeepsie. The family prospered and were in comfortable circumstances when the war broke out. John Walten, our pioneer, had married Polly Kruger, also a native of Prussia; their children were all born on the homestead in New York, where they remained with their mother throughout the war. John's father and other members of his family cast their lots with the rebels, but John himself remained loyal. He took part in with the Tories in organizing a company for service, but being greatly outnumbered by the Revolutionists, they were. For a time, compelled to remain inactive. He was suspected of being a British spy, but his mother secretly warned him of his danger and advised him to keep out of the way. He resolved to leave the country; but in order to secure his wife and children from the loss of their home by confiscation, he turned his property over to a cousin, who betrayed the confidence reposed in him by appropriating it to his own use, leaving the family to starve. The elder Walten Meyers was moved to pity and took one of the children, Jacob, to his own house.

"John Walten Meyers having, as he supposed, made safe provision for his family, started for Canada. He came accompanied by his brother-in-law, John Kruger, and his faithful old dog. They tramped through tangled forests and mirey swales, became footsore and weary, and suffered from lack of food. The dog became so emaciated and weak, that his master had to pick him up and carry him. Kruger, who was on the verge of collapse, being merely able to drag himself along, asked his companion in distress why he was carrying the dog.

"Oh" replied Meyers, "we may have to eat him yet!"

"But a supply of bear meat, furnished by a friendly Indian, saved the dog's bones from being picked; and the destination of the little party was reached in safety. Walten Meyers did not long remain in Canada. He was with Burgoyne at the surrender of Saratoga in 1777, but managed to escape by eluding the guard. As he had previously carried messages from Kingston and Burgoyne's army to Clinton, in New York, he knew too well what the result would be if he were to fall into the hands of the enemy. His secret services in the Royal cause were strongly suspected, and many attempts were made to capture him. Traditions in the family vary somewhat as to the details relating to his attempt to capture General Schuyler at Albany. As the story goes, Meyers went to Albany with only ten men. Boldly entering the yard and approaching the window, he saw the General seated within the room; but when they entered the house, his would-be prisoner was not to be found. Search was made from garret to cellar, but the General had mysteriously disappeared! In the garret were a number of large casks standing on end and seemingly empty; these were all kicked over and examined with the exception of one which, by some unaccountable oversight, was passed by. After the war, the General called on Meyers and informed him that a favorite old female slave had secreted him in that very cask, which had been overlooked. Meyers ordered his men not to injure or carry away any property belonging to the General, and it is said that when upon retiring he discovered a silver cup in the possession of one of his men, he instantly ordered it to be returned.

"When the struggle for independence was nearly over, Meyers received a Captaincy from Frederick Haldimand, Captain-General and Commander-in-Chief of the Province of Quebec. On May 13th, 1782, he was given a company of Major Jessup's corps of Loyal Rangers. When peace was declared and the corps disbanded, many of these soldiers settled along the banks of the St. Lawrence. Meyers remained a year or so in Montreal, but in the spring of 1787, pioneered his way into the Ninth Township, or Thurlow, where he built a cabin and remained a year. He then went to Sidney, settling and building mills on a stream a few miles east of the River Trent. The water power proving insufficient, he subsequently purchased the north half of the lot upon which the business portion of the City of Belleville now stands. For the land on which he built his mills, on the Moira, he paid John Taylor 20 pounds. For years the river was known as Meyer's Creek; and the little settlement which formed the nucleus of the present city of Belleville was known as "Meyer's Creek".

"Captain Meyers was energetic and enterprising and possessed a business ability that made him a leader in the affairs of the settlement. His life in the log cabin was of short duration. As early as 1794 we find him living in a brick house that for nearly a century was a prominent landmark in Belleville. It was the first brick house erected in Upper Canada; and the bricks used in its construction were baked on Meyer's land in Sidney. In those early times many persons who afterwards became prominent in provincial affairs found shelter in "Meyer's House" when journeying through the forest between Kingston and Newark or York. Captain Meyers and his jolly, buxom little wife enjoyed such a reputation among all classes of settlers for their hearty hospitality, as to make the fact worthy of mention in the annals of pioneer history. Not many years since, and while the old house was yet in an excellent state of preservation, the vandalism of modern enterprise attacked this old landmark, and completely destroyed it as a monument of pioneer activities.

"The first bateaux set afloat on the Upper Reach of the Bay of Quinte were constructed and used by Captain Meyers. Transporting his own freight was a large item in itself, as he operated saw and grist mills; and having established an Indian trading post on Stoco Lake, he had to make frequent shipments of furs and commodities. He ran bateaux down the Bay to Kingston, and even made occasional trips to Montreal. Later on, he put a schooner on the Bay, but the bateaux remained in general use until after his death. It is said, that when making the home runs, he carried passengers free. His "caboose" was always well stocked with "British grog," and being a great hunter and trapper, and a man of much experience as an early pioneer, it may well be imagined that all pioneer home-seekers who sought passage up the Bay in the Captain's bateaux, were pleasantly entertained. It is said that he built mills in Sidney as early as 1790; he certainly built the mills on the Moira in 1802. Old records show that he owned large tracts of land in different places, two lots of which were located on Collins' Bay, in the First Township, or Kingston. His services to the Crown were further recognized by his being retired as an officer of the British Army. His taste for military life and hunting has been generously transmitted down through all generations of his posterity. In an old list of officers of the Hastings Militia published in 1798, George Meyers appears as Captain, Leonard W. Meyers, as Lieutenant, and Jacob W. Meyers, as Ensign. When war was declared in 1812, records show that Leonard and Jacob were Captains in the 1st Regiment, Hastings Militia.

"In common with many pioneers of Upper Canada, the old Captain kept a number of slaves. One of these, a female named "Black Bet," was so devoted to her master that, when freed by law, she refused to leave him and remained a member of the household to the day of her death.

"Representative descendants of the old Pioneer in the fourth and fifth generations are found in Alva P. Meyers and his family. He is a son of Tobias W. Meyers, and consequently great-grandson of Captain Walten. Born in 1833, in 1857 he married a descendant of the pioneer Billings family, so prominent in Leeds and Carleton counties. He owns three hundred and eighty acres, which, with the exception of one farm located near Frankford, is situated on the Sidney Front and produces large crops. He is a staunch Reformer, but outside of being township councillor for two years, has been too actively engaged to afford time for public affairs. The old home of this branch of the family is situated about sixty rods from the shore of the Bay, and opposite Baker's Island, which at one time was a hive of milling activity. Alva P. Meyers and his wife have had the satisfaction of seeing their children grow up and settle in the vicinity of the old home where their ancestors have played a most important part for the past century. One son, Seba W. Meyers, who was born in 1859, and married Stella Vandervoort in 1885, farms one hundred acres on lots four and five in the fifth concession. He is a Liberal, a Methodist and a member of the I.O.F. Another son, Charles B. Meyers, in 1889, married Della VanBlaricom, who is a daughter of John Wesley VanBlaricom and a great-grand-granddaughter (sic) of the Sophiasburg pioneer, Abraham VanBlaricom. The two hundred acres which Charles B. Meyers farms on the 1st concession of Sidney are a portion of the original farm from which the old pioneer Meyers obtained the bricks to build his home at Meyer's Creek.

"Merton W. Meyers, son of George E. and nephew of Alva P., was born in 1864 on the old Meyers' farm, on lot 6, 1st concession of Sidney. Subsequently to serving three years in the employ of the Grand Trunk Railway, at Sidney Crossing, he built a brick block in which he conducted a bakery business in Trenton for some years. In 1886 he married a daughter of Lorenzo Vandervoort, and in 1887 returned to the farm in Sidney. This home is one of the most attractive on the Front; there may have been others more elaborated, but no neater or greater taste has been displayed.

"Allusion may be made to the late John A. W. Meyers as another worthy descendant of the family, and like his distinguished ancestors, a man of strong character who was ever ready to take a fitting and active interest in the affairs of his day. During the Lyon McKenzie rebellion, and when only seventeen years old, he carried despatches from Belleville to Kingston. As the trails through the woods was infested by disaffected Indians, his journey on horseback was fraught with many dangers, formidable for one so young. But this young "chip off the old block" was not to be daunted when duty was concerned! When only twenty years old he married the eighteen-year-old Louisa Hildreth. She was a young woman of education and refinement who was born in New York State, but came to Canada to teach school. Their son, Robert W. Meyers, now owns the house in which his parents commenced life together; he is married and has a son, and like his parents, is a member of the Methodist Church, and a Liberal in politics. He has been Township Assessor and Returning-Officer for a number of years, but has otherwise not held municipal office.

"George Wandel Meyers is another respected fourth generation descendant of the Meyers family in Sidney. He was born in 1829, and of all the other pioneer boys who attended the old Number Two school he is one of the very few now living. At an early age he was apprenticed to the tailor's trade in Belleville. After hiring out for farm work for several years he went to Wisconsin in 1858. Staying there only eighteen months, he returned with a hundred dollars of gold in his pocket. By industry and economy he saved sufficient to buy a farm, in Rawdon, which he later sold, to rent the Mabey farm. Eventually he purchased his present home, lot 4, 3rd concession, of Sidney. In 1859, he married Annie E., daughter of Samuel Mabey, and granddaughter of the pioneer John Mabey. They had a family of two: (1) Ida, who married Daniel Stevens, and had children Annie, Leila, Frank, John and Edith; and (2) Samuel, who married Hannah Stickle, and has a son Fred Earl. The fine property of this branch of the family is the fruit of very hard work. The farm consists of one hundred and sixty-six acres; the house is of good brick and supplemented by barns and other outbuildings replete with modern appliances. No man in the county of Hastings is more highly respected than George Wandel Meyers.

"There are numerous descendants of the old Pioneer in the Jacob W. Meyers branch; they are quite fully traced in the genealogical table annexed. Of the descendants of Tobias Waldron Meyers, it may be mentioned that the daughter of Edward W. married Herbert Fleury, a wealthy manufacturer of Aurora. His sister, Anna, married John N. Lazier.

"Mary, the eldest daughter of Jacob married Lyman Ashley. Her grand-daughter, Henrietta C. Taylor, married John Parker Thomas, the well-known barrister of Belleville and father of Henry Parker Thomas, who married Hilda M. Frost. Another sister, Ida Caroline, married Charles Corby.

"Ann Eliza Ashley married T.C. Parkhurst, now Police Judge at Canandaigua N.Y. Her sister, Augusta Matilda, the youngest child of Lyman and Mary Ashley, was one of the first stenographers in the Bay of Quinte region, and taught for a time at Toronto.

"Stella M.M. Taylor married David Mackenzie Waters, the well-known druggist in Belleville. He was born in Caithness-shire, Scotland, in 1852, his parents being David and Elizabeth Waters. When a boy of fifteen he came to Canada, and, having served an apprenticeship in the drug business with Mr. Edmond Chandler, and, having acted as an assistant pharmacist, he entered the firm of James Clark and Co., of Belleville, in 1876. In 1884, on the death of Mr. Clark, he assumed the business, which he has ever since successfully carried on. Mr. Waters belongs to the Presbyterian Church and to the I.O.F., and for years he took an active interest in the St. Andrew's Society. He belongs to the Conservative party."

Surname appears as "BLEECKER", "BLEKER", "BLAKER" and several other variants. Spelling for 18th and 19th century individuals within these genealogies standardized to "BLEECKER".

The Bleeker Family (Pioneer Life on the Bay of Quinte, 1904; pages 31 - 37)

"The Bleekers are descended from an old Holland Colonial family of New York. At a convention held at Albany as early as 1669, there was present a Jan Janse Bleeker; and twenty years later, in a letter written from Albany, the name of a Captain Bleeker appears. After the massacre of Schenectady, a meeting was called at Albany to arrange for the burial of the victims, and to provide some means of defence against future attacks of the French and their Indian allies; A.J. Bleeker is mentioned among those who took and active part at the meeting. Several others of the family are given in a published list of the freeholders of the city and county of Albany for the year 1720.

"John R. Bleeker, the Trenton pioneer, came from near Albany, in which city his father was a merchant. Shortly after his father's death his mother brought him and his sister to Kingston in company with a McKenzie family. John R. studied surveying, and at the age of eighteen was employed by the Government to assist in laying out the townships in the Bay of Quinte district. His mother married the McKenzie pioneer. His sister married George Finkle, a merchant and distiller and founder of the Canadian family of that name. She was a woman of business ability. And when left a widow engaged in the steamboat business with Henry Gildersleeve. Young Bleeker, while acting as assistant surveyor, became acquainted with Captain John Walten (sic) Meyers, who was at the time living in Montreal. He located his own land on both sides of the Trent, recognizing the importance of the situation as an Indian trading station. During those early years of his bush life he had much to do with the Indians, and was recognized as a man of authority among them. Like all the old pioneers he looked upon rum as a panacea for every ill that human flesh is heir to, and always kept a good supply on hand. The red men who were dispossessed of their God-given inheritance were exceedingly fond of the fire water, not because it tickled their palates, but because it gave them dare-devil spirit and made them "big injuns" in their own estimations. It is related how on certain occasion before the magisterial club of British authority had reduced Bleeker's red neighbors to a passive condition of law-abiding citizenship, they resolved to attack the Bleeker castle and fill their red skins with Bleeker's rum. But as they had to scale walls of logs, Bleeker saved his rum by pounding on the knuckles of each red hand as it grasped the uppermost log in its owner's attempt to get inside. T. Howard Bleeker, of Trenton, a grandson of the old pioneer, says that when the home was attacked his grandmother stood guard at the door. An Indian approached her with a spear, but his grandfather, perceiving him, drew her aside, thus saving her life, as the spear was thrust through the door. He had her conveyed to a cabin about a mile distant, and that same night she gave birth to her firstborn.

"The following tradition relating to the legend which gave the small island at the head of the Bay the name of "Fighting Indian" Island is derived from the same source. A band of Mississagas were in pursuit of a band of Mohawks. They had gone up the great lakes to Georgian Bay, and thence down the usual route by way of Lake Simcoe to the mouth of the Trent River. Arriving there, the Mohawks secreted themselves on the island at the head of the bay. In due time their pursuers discovered their encampment, and one foggy night, fastening their canoes one behind the other in a straight line, stealthily approached the island and attacked the sleeping Mohawk. Although one squaw awakened and gave the alarm, only one Mohawk warrior managed to escape; and, for several days after, he was to be seen skulking about the Bleeker store and business.

"Another member of the family relates how the old pioneer sat on a bench outside his cabin, smoking a pipe when two Indians came paddling by in a canoe, and when directly opposite him one took deliberate aim and fired at him, the ball entered a log just above his head. Bleeker rushed to the shore, sprung into his own canoe and gave chase. As he neared the Indian's canoe, the one who had fired the shot jumped overboard. But Bleeker caught him and gave him a thrashing, for in a rough-and-tumble combat he was a match for three or four Indians, and they were all afraid of him.

"The pioneer was commissioned a Justice of the Peace, and in the early days, Squire Bleeker, of Trenton, and Captain Meyers, of Meyers Creek, were important personages. The Squire married the Captain's daughter, Catherine, and had two sons by this marriage - John R., and George. After her death, he fell in love with Mary, another daughter of the Captain, who, knowing that the Squire had proved a model husband to her sister Catherine, fell in love with him; and so they were betrothed. But the old Captain would not have it so. He was headstrong, worldly, and not overmuch given to piety, but yet was scrupulous in his religious notions. The idea of a girl marrying her own brother-in-law was not only a flagrant violation of all the known proprieties, but a sin in the sight of God. He put down his cow-hide boot with a crash that might have been heard all the way to Trenton, and swore that such a union should not be! But love, like truth, is mighty, and in the end prevails. There are conflicting versions given of the elopement. The Squire and Mary did not run away; they paddles away during the absence of the old Captain. As he had gone down to Montreal with his batteau, the Squire and his sweetheart took advantage of his absence. They resolved to go to Kingston in a clandestine manner to have the marriage solemnized. Unfortunately they arrived there only to run against the Captain on his return. His suspicions were at once aroused, and he landed with "blood in his eye." The Squire succeeded in eluding him, and Mary disguised herself by wrapping an Indian blanket about her, and squatting among a group of squaws. It was well that it happened so, for the Captain was determined, and had the two met on that occasion there might have been one less Squire on the Bay of Quinte. This elopement occurred when the new province of Upper Canada was one year old. By this marriage, our pioneer had three sons - Tobias, Gilbert and Henry; and two daughters - Katie and Jane.

"He died, comparatively a young man, in 1807. Among his many enterprises was the building of a mill on Rawdon Brook near the present village of Stirling. It was while engaged at this work that he contracted the cold which caused his death. He died intestate at the age of forty-five years. His eldest son acquired all the property, and his widow with the remaining children returned to the mouth of the river, where she opened an (sic) hotel and operated a ferry. In this way she supported her family and made money over and above their needs. She attained the ripe old age of ninety-five years.

"For over a quarter of a century, Thomas Howard Bleeker, a grandson of the pioneer, has been proprietor of the "Gilbert House," at Trenton, well known as one of the most comfortable and well kept hotels in the Dominion. His mother, Elizabeth Ritchie, was only fifteen when she was married to John R. Bleeker, at Bath. Directly after the ceremony they started in a canoe for Trenton. Camping over night on Captain John's Island, they reached home the following day. Three months later the young bride had occasion to go to Bath to visit her parents. She went alone and on horseback, fording every stream between Trenton and Bath, with the exception of the Trent and Moira, over which she was ferried. She followed the Bay and found her way through long stretches of tangled forest. T. Howard Bleeker has two sons - William Adam and George Henry. The former is manager of the "Gilbert Hotel," the latter, a graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, is a medical doctor. Both are leading, progressive young men, highly respected in the community.

"Captain Walten Meyers, father-in-law of the pioneer Bleeker, gave each of his thirty-nine children a farm or an equivalent in money. Henry Bleeker received a farm of one hundred and fifty acres, on lot 13, of the 3rd concession of Sidney. He married, Sarah, daughter of Peter Leavens, one of the pioneers of the Hallowell family of that name. He was Clerk of the Division Court for Trenton and Sidney for many years. He assisted the early surveyors in their surveys of Sidney, and in later years was looked upon as quite an authority when such matters were in dispute. His son, Henry G. Bleeker, was partly educated in the Bloomfield Quaker Seminary. He married Ella Lawrence, a granddaughter of Reuben White. They have two children - Dougall L., who married Lillie Chapman, daughter of the Postmaster at Frankford; and Ina, who is unmarried. Henry G. Bleeker ran for member of the Ontario Legislature in 1898, but was defeated by a relatively small majority. At the present time he is a Road Commissioner of Hastings County. In this connection it may be mentioned that few townships in Ontario can boast of better roads than Sidney - a fact due to such men as Henry G. Bleeker and his predecessors.

"Donald G. Bleeker, grandson of Tobias Bleeker and great-grandson of the Pioneer, was born in Belleville, January 22nd, 1866, and educated at the public schools and Albert College. He served his apprenticeship in the drug business with L.W. Yeomans, Belleville, one of the oldest drug houses in Canada. Later he graduated at the College of Pharmacy, Toronto, and then spent three and one-half years in the large establishment of Parke, Davis & Company, Detroit, as manager of a department. From Detroit, he returned to the employ of L.W. Youmans (sic), where he became head clerk. In 1904 he purchased the drub business of Alex. Roy; the store is centrally located, and is unsurpassed by any in the Bay of Quinte district.

"Mr. Bleeker is well-known as an admirer of good horses. He is a member of the Moira Lodge, A.F. and A.M.; attends the Bridge Street Methodist Church, and his political leanings are with the Liberal party."

The Bleeker Family (Pioneer Life on the Bay of Quinte, 1904; pages 31 - 37)

"The Bleekers are descended from an old Holland Colonial family of New York. At a convention held at Albany as early as 1669, there was present a Jan Janse Bleeker; and twenty years later, in a letter written from Albany, the name of a Captain Bleeker appears. After the massacre of Schenectady, a meeting was called at Albany to arrange for the burial of the victims, and to provide some means of defence against future attacks of the French and their Indian allies; A.J. Bleeker is mentioned among those who took an active part at the meeting. Several others of the family are given in a published list of the freeholders of the city and county of Albany for the year 1720.

"John R. Bleeker, the Trenton pioneer, came from near Albany, in which city his father was a merchant. Shortly after his father's death his mother brought him and his sister to Kingston in company with a McKenzie family. John R. studied surveying, and at the age of eighteen was employed by the Government to assist in laying out the townships in the Bay of Quinte district. His mother married the McKenzie pioneer. His sister married George Finkle, a merchant and distiller and founder of the Canadian family of that name. She was a woman of business ability. And when left a widow engaged in the steamboat business with Henry Gildersleeve. Young Bleeker, while acting as assistant surveyor, became acquainted with Captain John Walten (sic) Meyers, who was at the time living in Montreal. He located his own land on both sides of the Trent, recognizing the importance of the situation as an Indian trading station. During those early years of his bush life he had much to do with the Indians, and was recognized as a man of authority among them. Like all the old pioneers he looked upon rum as a panacea for every ill that human flesh is heir to, and always kept a good supply on hand. The red men who were dispossessed of their God-given inheritance were exceedingly fond of the fire water, not because it tickled their palates, but because it gave them dare-devil spirit and made them "big injuns" in their own estimations. It is related how on certain occasion before the magisterial club of British authority had reduced Bleeker's red neighbors to a passive condition of law-abiding citizenship, they resolved to attack the Bleeker castle and fill their red skins with Bleeker's rum. But as they had to scale walls of logs, Bleeker saved his rum by pounding on the knuckles of each red hand as it grasped the uppermost log in its owner's attempt to get inside. T. Howard Bleeker, of Trenton, a grandson of the old pioneer, says that when the home was attacked his grandmother stood guard at the door. An Indian approached her with a spear, but his grandfather, perceiving him, drew her aside, thus saving her life, as the spear was thrust through the door. He had her conveyed to a cabin about a mile distant, and that same night she gave birth to her firstborn.

"The following tradition relating to the legend which gave the small island at the head of the Bay the name of "Fighting Indian" Island is derived from the same source. A band of Mississagas were in pursuit of a band of Mohawks. They had gone up the great lakes to Georgian Bay, and thence down the usual route by way of Lake Simcoe to the mouth of the Trent River. Arriving there, the Mohawks secreted themselves on the island at the head of the bay. In due time their pursuers discovered their encampment, and one foggy night, fastening their canoes one behind the other in a straight line, stealthily approached the island and attacked the sleeping Mohawk. Although one squaw awakened and gave the alarm, only one Mohawk warrior managed to escape; and, for several days after, he was to be seen skulking about the Bleeker store and business.

"Another member of the family relates how the old pioneer sat on a bench outside his cabin, smoking a pipe when two Indians came paddling by in a canoe, and when directly opposite him one took deliberate aim and fired at him, the ball entered a log just above his head. Bleeker rushed to the shore, sprung into his own canoe and gave chase. As he neared the Indian's canoe, the one who had fired the shot jumped overboard. But Bleeker caught him and gave him a thrashing, for in a rough-and-tumble combat he was a match for three or four Indians, and they were all afraid of him.

"The pioneer was commissioned a Justice of the Peace, and in the early days, Squire Bleeker, of Trenton, and Captain Meyers, of Meyers Creek, were important personages. The Squire married the Captain's daughter, Catherine, and had two sons by this marriage - John R., and George. After her death, he fell in love with Mary, another daughter of the Captain, who, knowing that the Squire had proved a model husband to her sister Catherine, fell in love with him; and so they were betrothed. But the old Captain would not have it so. He was headstrong, worldly, and not overmuch given to piety, but yet was scrupulous in his religious notions. The idea of a girl marrying her own brother-in-law was not only a flagrant violation of all the known proprieties, but a sin in the sight of God. He put down his cow-hide boot with a crash that might have been heard all the way to Trenton, and swore that such a union should not be! But love, like truth, is mighty, and in the end prevails. There are conflicting versions given of the elopement. The Squire and Mary did not run away; they paddled away during the absence of the old Captain. As he had gone down to Montreal with his batteau, the Squire and his sweetheart took advantage of his absence. They resolved to go to Kingston in a clandestine manner to have the marriage solemnized. Unfortunately they arrived there only to run against the Captain on his return. His suspicions were at once aroused, and he landed with "blood in his eye." The Squire succeeded in eluding him, and Mary disguised herself by wrapping an Indian blanket about her, and squatting among a group of squaws. It was well that it happened so, for the Captain was determined, and had the two met on that occasion there might have been one less Squire on the Bay of Quinte. This elopement occurred when the new province of Upper Canada was one year old. By this marriage, our pioneer had three sons - Tobias, Gilbert and Henry; and two daughters - Katie and Jane.

"He died, comparatively a young man, in 1807. Among his many enterprises was the building of a mill on Rawdon Brook near the present village of Stirling. It was while engaged at this work that he contracted the cold which caused his death. He died intestate at the age of forty-five years. His eldest son acquired all the property, and his widow with the remaining children returned to the mouth of the river, where she opened an (sic) hotel and operated a ferry. In this way she supported her family and made money over and above their needs. She attained the ripe old age of ninety-five years.

"For over a quarter of a century, Thomas Howard Bleeker, a grandson of the pioneer, has been proprietor of the "Gilbert House," at Trenton, well known as one of the most comfortable and well kept hotels in the Dominion. His mother, Elizabeth Ritchie, was only fifteen when she was married to John R. Bleeker, at Bath. Directly after the ceremony they started in a canoe for Trenton. Camping over night on Captain John's Island, they reached home the following day. Three months later the young bride had occasion to go to Bath to visit her parents. She went alone and on horseback, fording every stream between Trenton and Bath, with the exception of the Trent and Moira, over which she was ferried. She followed the Bay and found her way through long stretches of tangled forest. T. Howard Bleeker has two sons - William Adam and George Henry. The former is manager of the "Gilbert Hotel," the latter, a graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, is a medical doctor. Both are leading, progressive young men, highly respected in the community.

"Captain Walten Meyers, father-in-law of the pioneer Bleeker, gave each of his thirty-nine children a farm or an equivalent in money. Henry Bleeker received a farm of one hundred and fifty acres, on lot 13, of the 3rd concession of Sidney. He married, Sarah, daughter of Peter Leavens, one of the pioneers of the Hallowell family of that name. He was Clerk of the Division Court for Trenton and Sidney for many years. He assisted the early surveyors in their surveys of Sidney, and in later years was looked upon as quite an authority when such matters were in dispute. His son, Henry G. Bleeker, was partly educated in the Bloomfield Quaker Seminary. He married Ella Lawrence, a granddaughter of Reuben White. They have two children - Dougall L., who married Lillie Chapman, daughter of the Postmaster at Frankford; and Ina, who is unmarried. Henry G. Bleeker ran for member of the Ontario Legislature in 1898, but was defeated by a relatively small majority. At the present time he is a Road Commissioner of Hastings County. In this connection it may be mentioned that few townships in Ontario can boast of better roads than Sidney - a fact due to such men as Henry G. Bleeker and his predecessors.

"Donald G. Bleeker, grandson of Tobias Bleeker and great-grandson of the Pioneer, was born in Belleville, January 22nd, 1866, and educated at the public schools and Albert College. He served his apprenticeship in the drug business with L.W. Yeomans, Belleville, one of the oldest drug houses in Canada. Later he graduated at the College of Pharmacy, Toronto, and then spent three and one-half years in the large establishment of Parke, Davis & Company, Detroit, as manager of a department. From Detroit, he returned to the employ of L.W. Youmans (sic), where he became head clerk. In 1904 he purchased the drub business of Alex. Roy; the store is centrally located, and is unsurpassed by any in the Bay of Quinte district.

"Mr. Bleeker is well-known as an admirer of good horses. He is a member of the Moira Lodge, A.F. and A.M.; attends the Bridge Street Methodist Church, and his political leanings are with the Liberal party."

George:

1851 - 1861: Family lived in Sidney Township, Hastings County, Ontario

Pioneer Life on the Bay of Quinte, 1904, pages 1-12

"One of the most hospitable homes in Sydney is the substantial house of George M. Ketcheson, who is a son of Colonel William Ketcheson and grandson of the older pioneer. It is a home that everywhere bears evidences of comfort and plenty, and where the host and hostess entertain in the old fashioned hospitable way. While its owner received 300 acres from his father, he has increased his holdings, until now he possesses 560 acres. George M. Ketcheson, like his father, is a good Methodist and a staunch Conservative. His family are detailed in the appended genealogy: Thomas, the oldest, is one of the leading men of Sidney; he is President of the Township of Sidney Conservative Association, Vice-President of the West Hastings Liberal Conservative Association for Dominion purposes, President of the Sidney Town Hall Cheese and Butter Co., and Vice-President of the Belleville Cheese Board. He is an enthusiastic sportsman, a crack shot and an expert fisherman. Although only eighteen years of age, his son Howard is a Sergeant in the Hastings Rifles. Captain William G. Ketcheson, namesake of his father, attended the Royal Canadian Infantry School, Toronto and is very popular in military circles. An enthusiast in all matters military, he joined the militia in 1886, got his commission the following year, and has lately received his company. His brother Daniel is a man of attractive personality, who is justly popular. He pursued a commercial course at the Ontario Business College, Belleville, and has since travelled extensively. Bleeker Ketcheson, the youngest son in this family, is a typical young Canadian farmer, intelligent, energetic and ambitious."

Henry:

Pioneer Life on the Bay of Quinte, 1905; Henry BOWLER; (pages171 - 172)

"The subject of this sketch was born in Bedfordshire, England, Dec. 1st, 1855. There he attended school, and at the age of fifteen emigrated to (sic) Canada, arriving at Belleville, May 8th, 1870. His sole possessions, on arriving, consisted of one-half sovereign piece, three shillings and threepence, which his mother had placed in a small linen bag and handed to him before his departure. Feeling full confidence in his ability to get along, he immediately sent back, to his mother, the identical half sovereign piece, retaining the three shillings and threepence as his capital on which to start life in the new country. He also retained the linen bag which he still treasures among his most valued possessions. That he was successful, goes without saying, as any young man with his pluck and energy could not prove otherwise. He found employment in Belleville and Sidney for about seven years, being most of the time in the employ of the G.T.R., where he obtained an education in the railroad business, which equipped him for his subsequent success. He left the G.T.R. to enter the service of the Central Ontario Railway, on which railway he was conductor for thirteen years.

"He married Elizabeth Vandervoort, August 16, 1876. She was the daughter of Tobias Vandervoort, and great-granddaughter of Francis Vandervoort, the old pioneer, She has proved a worthy help-mate to her energetic husband. They have had the following children: Cora, Ethel, Arthur and Pearl. Cora married James S. Westfall, Sept. 4th, 1895 and settled in Sidney. Ethel married James H. Beatty, August 26th, 1903 and settled in Trenton. Arthur and Pearl are unmarried.

"The Bowler family belong to the Methodist Church, and attend Church at Trenton. Mr. Bowler is a Liberal in politics; but aside from being Secretary Treasurer and also Trustee of School Section No. 5, for two years, he has held no public office. He became a charter member of Lodge 113, I.O.O.F, Trenton, in 1885, and also a charter member of the I.O.F 691, Trenton in 1890. After retiring from the railroad business, he purchased the one hundred and sixteen acres farm. Lot 2, concession 2. Sidney, where he now resides. Besides other real estate, he owns the St. James Hotel, Trenton. His home farm is an excellent one, and he has exerted the same energy in bringing it to a high state of cultivation that characterised his success in the railroad business. He lives in a fine brick residence, and enjoys as comfortable a home as can be found in Sidney."

Pioneer Life on the Bay of Quinte, 1904; pages 1-12:

"Descended from the pioneer and the grandson of Colonel Elijah Ketcheson, is Thomas E. Ketcheson, one of the leading merchants of the city of Belleville. He was the third son and child of Allen T. and Mary Ketcheson, and was born upon the farm, cleared and settled by his great-grandfather, perhaps the oldest farm in the Bay of Quinte region.

"His public school education was supplemented by a course at the High Scholl at Deseronto. Subsequently he taught school and about 1890 came to Belleville, engaging in the mercantile business with John W. Dunnett. In 1898, the business was taken over by the present firm of Laidlaw and Ketcheson, consisting of John A. Laidlaw and Thomas E. Ketcheson. The firm owns and successfully operates one of the largest dry goods and carpet houses between Montreal and Toronto.

"Mr. Ketcheson although devoted to his business takes a keen interest in political matters and has rendered valuable services to the Liberal party as a member of the Liberal Association. He married Della Hampton and they have five children - Percy, Marion, Allen, Thera and Clarence. Mr. Ketcheson belongs to the Masonic Order and also to the Church of England."

Charles:

Pioneer Life on the Bay of Quinte, 1904

"His son, Charles W. Saylor, was born in Prince Edward County April 20th, 1863, and educated at the old historical No. 2 school, Sidney. He spent his early days on the farm, but in 1880 his father, Caleb B. Saylor, sold his farm on the Front of Sidney, and removed to Trenton, where he opened a general store and ran it successfully for about five years, when he retired from active business, being succeeded by Charles W. Saylor, who since then has more than quadrupled the stock, including groceries, crockery, house furnishings, furniture, etc. in a store 128 x (illegible) feet.

"Besides this, Mr. Saylor has one of the most attractive stocks of the same kind in Frankford, where he carries a large stock of goods. The Saylor stores are popular throughout the district and Mr. Saylor is one of the leading merchants of Trenton and Frankford. He has been a member of the Trenton council for a number of years. He is independent in politics, but takes an intelligent and prominent part in public affairs."
