The Van Dusen Family (Pioneer Life on the Bay of Quinte, 1904; pages 57 - 68)

"The Canadian pioneers of this family were two brothers, Conrad and Casper VanDusen, who accompanied Major Van Alstine's party after the Revolutionary War, and landed in Adolphustown in 1784.

"Owing to the unremitting study and research of Mr. Albert H. VanDusen, who for twelve years taught in the Albany, N.Y. Boys' Academy, and for the last twenty-eight years has been an official in the Interior Department at Washington, D.C., a well authenticated historical account of the VanDusens on the American continent has been compiled. The descent of the family is traced from a certain Abraham Pieterse VanDuersen, who came at an early date from Haarlem, in the Netherlands, and settled at New Amsterdam. Born in about the year 1605, he married, about 1628, Trynje Melchoir Abrahams, and had six children, the eldest, Mattheus Abrahamsen VanDeusen, being born about 1629. He was granted a lot at Beverwyck, Albany; but in 1667, removed to Claverack, in Columbia county. Mattheus married, in 1653, Helena Robberts, and had eleven children. The fourth son and first son was Robbert (Teuwis) VanDeusen, who, about 1689, married first Cornelia Martens VanBuren, a relative of Martin Vanburen, eighth President of the United States; and second, about 1718, Geertruy VanBenthuyzen. Robbert VanDuesen had five children, the youngest being Robbert Robertsen Vanduesen, who was baptized in 1700 and married in 1724. His wife was Christina Roorpagh (Roorbach), and she had nine children. The eldest, Robert, married in 1750, Christina Ham, and was the father of the Canadian pioneers.

"The VanDuesen progenitors in America were prominent among the Dutch pioneers who did so much to found and solidly lay the foundation of the Eastern United States. A sympathetic writer in the New York Genealogical and Biographical Record for 1899 says that: -

"The Vandusens have always occupied an honorable position in this country, being one of its most prominently known Dutch families. Their strong characteristics of body and mind have been very evident in all branches and generations; they have been very conservative; they have intermarried with many prominent families they have had an especial fondness for accumulating large landed estates; they have been very active in the founding and support of both the Dutch Reformed and the Episcopal Churches, and they were very active during the Revolution."

"That the "VanDuesens" were all that is claimed for them is evident from the prominence they held among their fellow Dutch settlers. The American pioneer is stated in the New York colonial documents to have taken possession in 1636 of the Island of Quentensis, in front of Sloop's Bay, on behalf of the Dutch West India Company. In 1638 he was spoken of as the first miller in New Amsterdam, an important and lucrative position; in 1641, he was chosen by the commonality as one of the Twelve Men empowered to resolve on all matters pertaining to the State with the Director General and Council; and in 1643 he was one of the eight men who sent forward a memorial to the States General of Holland, praying that assistance be afforded the distressed colony against the Indian outbreaks. These two bodies were the first assemblies on Manhattan Island. Abraham VanDusen is supposed to have had several other brothers, one of whom was called Hendrick VanDussenberg, and was master of the Masons in 1638; and another, Adrian Pietersen, of Aitzema, in the Netherlands, was a director of the Dutch West Indies Company.

"The name of a distinguished family has undergone many changes, and VanDusen, the one here used, had been adopted more because it is the generally accepted cognomen of the Canadian branches than from any desire to suggest that it is a correct version. The early Dutch settlers were not in the habit of using their surnames; but unlike many of the surnames of the old Dutch families in the New World, that of our American pioneer was the surname of his family in the Netherlands and owed its derivation from the name of the village of Duersen, in North Brabant.

"Conrad Vandusen, the older of the Canadian pioneer brothers, was born in 1751, and, in 1771, married Hannah Coon, of Dutchess county, who was born in 1753 and died in 1791: by the union there were four children. He afterwards married Millicent Hover, nee Ferguson, widow of Jacob Hover. In a sworn declaration made by Conrad VanDusen at Montreal, and dated 1787, a brief account is given of his antecedents prior to coming into Canada. He stated that he was a native of Dutchess county, and that when the war broke out he was living on a farm in Rensselaer Manor, leased "forever" from Colonel Rensselaer. He continued to live at home until, in February, 1777, he went to New York to try and effect the release of Captain McAlpine of Colonel Fanning's regiment, whose life was in danger through being taken prisoner while recruiting to the British Army. The declaration further states that VanDusen enlisted in Fanning's regiment, in which he served throughout the whole war. Canniff, the historian, gives a different version: he writes that Conrad VanDusen was at the commencement of the war in business, as a tailor, in New York City, and that he served during the Revolution in Butler's Rangers. During the war, the account goes on to say, VanDusen was sometimes employed on secret service missions, and upon one occasion being caught was condemned to be hanged. When leaving the room in which he had been tried, he managed to convey a gold ring which was a keepsake from his wife, to a woman who was present, and whose earnest demeanour led him to believe her to be friendly. By some means he manage to escape, having concealed himself in a swamp; and years after, at Catarqui, he was surprised and rejoiced to receive the ring, from the woman into whose hands he had so adroitly placed it.

"Casper VanDusen, the younger of the two brothers who came to Canada, was born in 1761, in Dover, a post village in Dover township about twenty miles east of Poughkeepsie. In 1786 he married Hannah Mary, a daughter of John W. Shorts and Rosannah Monk, who were of Swiss origin.

"The Vandusen brothers were with Major Vanalstine's party that landed in Adolphustown in 1784; where they settled. Conrad and his children drew land as loyalists, as did Casper and his family, although what part the latter played in the Revolution is not stated; but both their names are included in the list of troops and loyalists disbanded at Catarqui in 1784. Conrad Vandusen drew lot sixteen on the Bay shore, where he kept a tavern until he removed to Marysburg, in 1814. As Sergeant Conrad VanDusen, he received by Crown deed dated the 6th April, 1797, the four hundred acres which comprised lot one on the north side of Carrying Place, in the township of Hallowell. Two hundred of these acres he deeded, in 1805, to Abraham Barker, a son of the pioneer Barker. The rear two hundred acres were deeded to Henry C. VanDusen, who, in turn, deeded them to his son David, who handed them down to Jeremiah Terwillager, his son-in-law. Besides this property, Conrad VanDusen owned a lot in North Marysburg, held by Crown deed dated 1802, which he sold, in 1819, to John Toby, who had married his daughter Hannah.

"Captain VanDusen drew the west half of lot thirteen, and the east half of lot fourteen, in the second concession of Adolphustown, and which extended back towards Hay Bay. He settled there until 1819, when he removed with his family to Sophiasburg, settling on lot eighteen, where he lived until his death, which occurred in 1838. Record of the history of these lots has been kept. The west half of lot 13, in Adolphustown, was deeded by the Crown, in 1801, to Casper Vandusen, who deeded it, in 1803, to Daniel Haight. This hundred-acre lot was sold, in 1894, for four thousand six hundred and fifty dollars. The east half of lot fourteen first passed in 1797 from the Crown to Captain Abram Maybee; and then, in 1804, from the Crown to Caspar VanDusen, who, in 1809, disposed of it to Daniel Haight, for one hundred pounds. Lot eighteen on the Sophiasburgh High Shore, which comprised two hundred acres, was deeded, in 1803, by the Crown to Caspar Vandusen. Fifty acres, the north-east part, he sold in 1838, to his youngest son, Peter J.M. VanDusen; and the western portion, he left to his widow. One hundred and fifty acres of the whole lot were sold, in 1858, to Richard W. Handley.

"The VanDusen pioneers in Canada, emulated the life of honor and prominence their forefathers enjoyed in the States. They were deeply interested in the religious life of their communities, and Conrad was the largest contributor to the building of the old Adolphustown church. The original deed of the land for the site of the church, written in the exquisite penmanship of Arra Ferguson, is still in existence and in the possession of the Allison family. Caspar VanDusen also was a contributor to the Adolphustown church. When he settled later in Sophiasburg he became a class leader in Conger's church, the oldest Methodist church now in use in the province. He lent valuable assistance, in work and donations, to the building of the of the old Conger meeting house; among other items, record is kept of five-and-a-half days' work performed by Caspar VanDusen in June, 1809. The two brothers were among the early converts of William Losee to Methodism. It is related, in Playter's History of Methodism, that one of the first houses D. William Losee preached in was in "the tavern of Conrad Vandusen, in Adolphustown, near the old court house." Another writer says that Conrad VanDusen, although a tavern keeper as well as a merchant, opened his house for the Gospel; and that when the Gospel had entered his heart, as well as his house, he deliberately took an axe and cut down his signposts. It is also narrated, by Doctor Green, how Caspar Vandusen, who was very ignorant of religious matters and phrases, when first converted, stood up to say grace at table, and commenced, "And now I lay me down to sleep!"

"The descendants of the pioneers have become well-known in the county of Prince Edward, and are to be found married into the best of its old pioneer families. The members of the family of Conrad VanDusen, sought alliance with the Washburn, Brown, Huff, Dingman, Carson, Roblin, weeks, Greeley, and Minaker families, as will be seen from the appended genealogies of the Pioneers, Conrad and Caspar. The Rev. Conrad VanDusen, a namesake son of the Pioneer, was an author and distinguished member of the Methodist Episcopal Conference, from 1829 until 1874. One of his principal works was entitled "Practical Theology." He spent a large share of his life among the Ojibbeway (sic) Indians, and drawing from his experience and knowledge of the tribal customs, wrote "The Indian Chief," using the nom-de-plume of Enemikeese, his Indian cognomen. He was a most persistent advocate of having Indian affairs administered by the local legislature, and not by the Indian Department. In this connection he sent Lord Bing, Superintendent-General of Indian affairs, for transmission to the Governor-General, Sir Edmund Head, a petition from the Chief's (sic) and Indians comprising the Ojibbeway Tribe, in Owen Sound country. The Rev. Conrad VanDusen was married, in 1820, by Magistrate Samuel Dorland, to Mary Roblin, a daughter of Own, and a granddaughter of Stephen Roblin.

"Casper Vandusen's descendants are well married and are to be found largely in the townships of Sophiasburg and Hallowell. One, a grandson, Austin VanDusen, no lives a life of retirement at Green Point, after having enjoyed a very rich share of travel and adventure. While still quite young, he managed to make his way to New York, and thence to New Bedford, Mass., where some influence he commanded procured to him a post on board the whaler, "Euphrates," bound for Russia. As super-cargo, or ship's clerk, he was able to obtain an intelligent and interesting insight into all that was done and all the places visited; but before returning to Canada, he had experienced more adventures than even his most ardent wished had desired. He sailed around Cape Horn, across the Southern Pacific to Juan Fernandez (Robinson Crusoe's) island; and thence to the Sandwich Isles. After narrowly escaping being burned, the "Euphrates" " ailed into the Sea of Okotsk (sic), when the young adventurer took advantage of an opportunity to travel into Corca, the scene of the Russo-Japanese War. One of his experiences was to stand on a whale's head as it swam in the ocean. The boat in which the super-cargo was standing, ready to launch his spear, upset, and he suddenly landed on the whale's head.

"Returning from his long whaling cruise, he sailed for four years on a Hudson River line, and then returned to Prince Edward, where he married Phoebe Short, a granddaughter of Jacob Short. Austin VanDusen soon after relinquished all further idea of following the sea and engaged in the painting and decorating business in which he proved most successful. Together with his wife he now leads a quiet, retired life on his farm at Green Point, where he is much respected and takes an active and intelligent interest in the welfare and progress of his native township.

"Another grandson of the pioneer, and brother of Austin VanDusen is Albert H. Vandusen, who has been mentioned in the earlier part of the sketch as the historian of the VanDusen Family. He migrated to the United States in 1859 and settled on Long Island; but when the Civil War broke out he enlisted in the 97th New York. He was promoted to captaincy and was engaged in many battles, being wounded at Petersburg and taken prisoner during a raid in Virginia. Honourably discharged on the 30th June, 1865, he now holds an important post in the Department of the Interior, at Washington, D.C.

"Jacob R. VanDusen, youngest son and child of Conrad VanDusen, had several children. He settled in Tara, in the County of Bruce, where many of his descendants still reside. His eldest son, Whitford VanDusen, however is a resident of Toronto, and is accounted one of the solid men and leading financiers of the Queen City.

"Whitford VanDusen received his early education at Picton, and when only sixteen was himself intrusted with a school then located near the site of the present gaol. He taught at Bongard's Corners, opposite the first landing place of the United Empire Loyalists at Adolphustown. After five years of teaching, this time in the County of Bruce, Mr. VanDusen entered mercantile life. He was engaged in business for twenty-five years; during the first three years being associated with Mr. John Tobey. During the next fifteen years he carried on a private banking business at Tara. Having sold this business to the Merchants Bank of Canada, Mr. VanDusen accepted the Presidency of the Sun and Hastings Savings and Loan Company and became a resident of Toronto. He has also served upon the directorate of other large and well-known corporations, including "Dominion Life," the "Continental Life," the "Equity Fire Insurance," and the "Dominion Linen Mills Companies;" and has been long identified with the skillful and prudent administration of many important financial interests that centre in Toronto.

"Owen VanDusen, a son of Conrad, and a grandson of Conrad the Pioneer, settled in Owen Sound. In early life he studied the profession of law, and was called to the bar about 1840. He practiced in Owen Sound for many years, and adorned the profession. He served his articles in the offices of Sir Henry Smith, of Kingston. Subsequently, he entered journalism and edited the "Comet," the leading Conservative paper north of Toronto, in its day. His son, Charles F. VanDusen, resides on the High Shore, about one mile from Picton, and is successfully engaged in farming, cultivating an estate of more than two hundred and thirty acres. He is an active and zealous citizen, and takes a keen interest in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the town and county.

"Roswell Vandusen, thirteenth child of Conrad VanDusen, held two commissions as an Ensign; one under the Rt. Hon. Sir Charles T. Metcalf, dated 1845; and the other under Lord Elgin, dated 1847. His son, George E. Vandusen, served with the 16th Battalion, during the Fenian Raid, and was promoted from Sergeant to Lieutenant and filled the office of Captain, pro tem. He holds two silver medals, with bars; one for gallantry during the Fenian Raid, and the other a long service medal. He married Agnes R., daughter of Edwin N. Kingsley and granddaughter of Captain Nicholas Toler Kingsley, of the King's Life Guards. Mrs. VanDusen's immediate family included William R., Edwin, Lydia Pier, Sarah A. who married John W. Horne and settled in New York; Angeline V., who married Alger Huff; Mary, who married William H. Markland, and George, who died young."
